

ALMOST CIVIL WAR

Gen. Luna Formed His Troops Into Battle Array With Gen. Mascarado's Force.

A BATTLE AVERTED BY AGUINALDO.

It Was Immediately Before the Battle of Saint Tomas That the Insurgent Leaders Quarreled.

Shouts of Defiance and Hatred Were Heard on Both Sides—The Soldiers Had Loaded Their Pieces and Were Awaiting Orders.

MANILA, May 10.—Only the entreaties of Aguinaldo averted last Tuesday a civil war between the forces of his two rival generals, Luna and Mascarado. They were actually drawn up in battle array.

This and a positive confirmation of the news that Luna has been dangerously wounded in the shoulder in the battle of Saint Tomas are the most important items of intelligence brought by the army gunboats Laguna de Bay and Cavendish, which returned Tuesday from a brisk expedition up the San Fernando river. It was immediately before the battle of St. Tomas that the insurgents so nearly arrived at the point of beginning to exterminate one another. Gen. Luna, when he saw that an engagement with the American troops was inevitable, sent back an aid post-haste to Bacolor, where Gen. Mascarado was demanding reinforcements.

Mascarado's reply was that he would take orders from no one but Aguinaldo. This defiance so infuriated Luna that in spite of the impending conflict with the common enemy he took 1,500 of his soldiery and made a forced march to Bacolor, intent on chastising his comrade in arms. Mascarado was willing and ordered his command into line of battle. Shouts of hatred and defiance were heard on both sides. Outside the opposing forces the insurgent camp was all confusion.

Aguinaldo, who was terrified by the situation, ordered his chief of staff, Col. Arguelles, to make peace at all hazards. The soldiers had loaded their pieces and were waiting for orders to begin the onslaught when Arguelles galloped between the lines frantically waving a flag of truce. There was an angry conference between him and the rival generals.

Aguinaldo was drawn into it. With all the intensity at his command he begged Luna and Mascarado not to plunge the Filipino forces into civil strife at a time when they were already broken and demoralized by successive defeats at the hands of the Americans. His entreaties prevailed for the time being. Gen. Luna sullenly returned to the front after the commanding general had provided him with reinforcements and ordered Mascarado to be court-martialed for not having sent them at first.

The Parade of the Veterans Occurred in the Afternoon After Which Memorial Services Will Be Held—Gen. Gordon's Address.

CHARLESTON, S. C., May 10.—In gala dress of bunting and festoons of electric lights Charleston was Tuesday night welcoming the visitors and delegates to the Ninth reunion of the United Confederate Veterans. All day the railroads have been emptying the men who wore the gray and their friends into the little city which heard the first hostile shot of the war between the states.

Most of the more distinguished ex-confederate leaders are already in the city, among them being Gens. Gordon, the commander-in-chief of the association; Stephen D. Lee, Wade Hampton, Clement A. Evans, Cabell, of Texas; George P. Harrison and Hardin.

Gen. Wheeler arrived Wednesday. The reunion proper began Wednesday, the only official function scheduled for Tuesday being the reception of the cruiser Raleigh, which was postponed until Wednesday, because of the vessel's accident in going around while coming up to the city Tuesday morning. Tuesday night the great auditorium, with a seating capacity of 7,000, was taxed to hold the crowd.

A superb choir and orchestra furnished the musical portion of the exercises, and addresses were made by Mayr Smyth, Gen. Wade Hampton and Maj. Theodore G. Barker. The prayer was made by Rev. Ellison Capers, bishop of South Carolina and a brigadier general of the confederate army.

Wednesday was the first day of the reunion, and the occasion was also an observance of South Carolina memorial day.

The parade of the veterans occurred in the afternoon, at the conclusion of which memorial exercises were held in the Auditorium. Gen. Gordon presided and delivered an address. The memorial address will be made by Gen. George Moorman, of New Orleans, adjutant general of the confederacy.

Many social functions are in progress in honor of the distinguished visitors.

LEBANON, TENN., TERRORIZED.

Mob of Masked Men Enter the Jail in Search of Prisoners—One Taken to the Country, Another Escapes.

LEBANON, TENN., May 10.—A mob of 50 masked men terrorized this place at an early hour Tuesday morning. First the jail was visited and Ewing Hodge, who is charged with attempting to murder a white woman, was demanded.

Being assured by a search of the jail that Hodge had been spirited away to safety the members turned its attention to the city workhouse. There Bill Dibble and Leslie Hudgins, two Negroes accused of attempting to free themselves into Mrs. Nace's home, were confined and they were soon in hands of the mob.

Officers attempted to interfere, and in the mix up Hudgins escaped. Then Dibble was hustled into a spring wagon and started to the country. Nothing further is definitely known, but it is rumored that the Negro escaped with a severe beating.

GUN COTTON TEST.

Possibility of Using That Explosive in Shells Fired by Powder Without Danger.

THE TEST RESULTED SATISFACTORILY.

A Fifteen-Inch Rodman Gun, Weighing 49,000 Pounds, 16 Feet in Length, Was Placed in a Pit.

The Gun Was Charged With 100 Pounds Smokeless Powder to Discharge the Bronze Shell Containing 82 Pounds Wet Gun Cotton.

NEW YORK, May 10.—To demonstrate the possibility of using gun cotton in shells fired by powder without danger, there was a test at the Sandy Hook proving grounds Tuesday which resulted satisfactorily to the government officials. It will require at least two days to determine whether or not the test was a success from a scientific standpoint. The experiment was made with a Gathman fuse, with a sufficient quantity of powder to burst the gun from which the charge of gun cotton was fired. Small quantities of unexploded gun cotton were found after the test.

Heretofore the drawback in discharging gun cotton with the aid of powder has been the danger of a premature explosion. The Gathman fuse is made to operate and explode the cotton by a system whose success depends upon the revolving motion of the shell. To explode, the shell must be fired from a gun with a rifle bore, simple concussion not being sufficient to do it.

The test was made with a 15-inch Rodman gun, weighing 49,000 pounds, 16 feet in length, the walls of the gun being 10 1/2 inches in diameter. The gun was placed in a pit 15 feet deep after 100 pounds of fine smokeless powder had been rammed home, to be used to discharge the phosphor bronze shell containing 82 pounds of 32 percent wet gun cotton. The Gathman fuse contained 9 1/2 ounces of dry gun cotton and 35 grains of fulminate of mercury.

The charge of powder was an excessive one and was for the purpose of bursting the gun without exploding the gun cotton. The bore of the gun was filled with wet sand, the gun covered with sand and timber, the pit filled with sand and a mound of the same material five feet high was built, making the depth of the gun 18 feet. An electric wire connected with the gun. There was an upheaval of sand and timber 50 feet in the air and the huge hole was torn in the sand. A dozen pieces of the Rodman gun, which had burst into small pieces, were found in the sand, and also some small pieces of unexploded gun cotton.

When an examination was made of a piece of the muzzle of the gun, it was found that the inner side, near the muzzle, was coated with phosphor bronze from the shell and the belief is that the shell was partly dislodged and at least reached the muzzle of the gun before the shell burst. The officials, who were making the test, found the pressure gauge of the gun, but it was so badly twisted and bent that it was impossible to tell the force of the discharge.

A score of laborers were set to work to dig down to the pit, where it is believed a large mass of the unexploded gun cotton will be found. It will be some days before the task will be accomplished.

Among those who witnessed the test was R. Adm. Charles O'Neil, chief ordnance officer of the United States navy.

FATAL DISPUTE OVER A BILL.

Four Men are Dead in the Fight Which Was Precipitated—The Fight Was a Vicious One.

MERIDIAN, Miss., May 10.—A deplorable tragedy was enacted at Okolona, Miss., Tuesday night. The details as received here are somewhat confusing, but it is understood that as a result of the affair four men, among the most prominent people in the little town are dead. Dr. Wm. Murphy became involved in a dispute with Charles D. Clarke over a bill which the doctor claimed Clarke owed him. The dispute grew heated, and a fight was precipitated. Clarke drew a knife and rushing at the physician quickly severed his jugular vein. Howard Murphy, the physician's son, hearing of the trouble, rushed to the scene with a revolver and shot Clarke to death. Walter Clarke, Clarke's brother, then came up and engaged Howard Murphy in a duel. Pistols were used. The fight was a vicious one and resulted in the death of both young men.

PARTIALLY COLLAPSED.

The Great Saengerfest Building in Course of Construction at Cincinnati, Tumbling Down—No One Hurt.

CINCINNATI, May 10.—The Saengerfest building, in course of erection at Vine street and Erkenbrecher avenue, is a partial ruin. During the noon hour while the workmen were at lunch, the east half of the building creaked and swayed and finally fell with a crash of its own weight. Other portions of the building appear to be tottering, and it would not be surprising if the entire structure should be in ruins before night. Fortunately no one was about the premises at the time, and the accident is spared the attending horror of broken limbs and bruised bodies of workmen. The building fell with a terrible crash, which could be heard for quite a distance.

The collapse being at the noon hour, the workmen were at their meals and no one was hurt.

The entire east portion of the building fell and the wreckage and debris is piled in a confusing mass, as the falling timbers carried with them the scaffolding and supports used in construction.

INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION.

S. B. Donnelly, President of the International Typographical Union, Given a Hearing Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—S. B. Donnelly, president of the International Typographical union, was before the industrial commission Tuesday. Referring to the strike of the stereotypers in Chicago last year Mr. Donnelly said it was a failure because it did not have the sanction of the general order. He thought strikes were diminishing. The witness estimated that there were about 4,000 Morganthal machines in the United States and said they had displaced about 12,000 workmen.

The printers had accepted machinery in their work as inevitable, but he considered them detrimental to their business under existing circumstances. Mr. Donnelly opposed the incorporation of trades unions because he was afraid of the courts. "The banking system seems to permeate everything," he said. "Not only legislatures move in the direction indicated by the bankers, but the courts must do the same thing."
